The platform of the station is entirely under water from the overflowing of Assanpink creek. At midnight the tracks at the station were twenty-one inches under water and at the tunnel under the Delaware and Raritan cana' the tracks were forty inches under water.

The company placed a number of loaded cars on the tracks where they cross the creek to prevent the rails washing away. At midnight the water was still rising.

Cloudburst Wrecks a Dam.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 10 .- A cloudburst to-day caused the Kirkwood lake, twelve miles from here, to break its dam, flooding the country for several miles under two to five feet of water. Four hundred feet of the embankment of the Pennsylvania Railroad Atlantic City division were swept away. The tracks of the Reading Railroad were also under water. No trains were run on the Reading road, and the Pennsylvania Company ran its trains via New Field, abandoning its two-track line. Trains were from one to three hours late.

Brush left for the East immediately. In Boston he said that the deal was not closed until Friday, when he met Mr. Fleischmann in New York. Mr. Brush said he felt that in retiring from the field in Cincinnati he was fortifying the National League, for this action will surely discourage the efforts of all angel hunters with franchises to give away. He said there would be no American League club in Cincinnati next year or any other year. He said the Cincinnati owners will be stanch National League men, as that was the first stipulation in the agreement on which the sale was made. Baseball Notes.

Louisville increased the lead a few points yesterday by taking two games from Milwaukee. The Colonels will have trouble with Kansas City this week. To-day is an off day for Indianapolis. It to induce the Milwaukee club to play a postponed game to-day. Havenor refused, laiming he had already arranged for an exhibition game at Muncie. The series with Milwaukee will begin to-morrow and the Brewers will be here three days, BRYAN DEMOCRATS.

There Are a Good Many of Them to Be Considered. Asked yesterday if the Democrats of Alabama were talking about nominating

Mr. Bryan for President in 1904, Representative Bankhead, of that State, re-

"They are not taking much interest in that as yet, but there are Bryan Democrats in Alabama who will have to be reckoned with when the time comes. This describes the Democratic situation in many States. The wiser members of the party are doing more thinking than talking just now. They recognize the fact that i most difficult problem confronts them, and that success at the polls is out of the ques-RHE | tion unless they can arrange their differences and rally unitedly to the support of a strong man upon a strong platform. They have two years in which to examine the case in all of its phases, and they cannot be too diligent in employing the time. But there are many Bryan Democrats who will have to be reckoned with when the times comes." These men are still under the spell of the Nebraska leader. His two defeats and the failure of all of his predictions have not shaken his hold on their admiration and affection. They still dwell upon the fact that, though defeated, he polled over a million more votes than any other Democratic nominee for the Presidency, and they accept with unquestioning faith his very lame explanations of the shipwreck of his prophecies. And then will come his last appeal to them, which may be made from the stage of the convention hall itself. No history of great inventions would be complete that did not include a few of the achievements of the passionate press agent. At Paris recently a handsome American actress was spoken to rudely by a cabby; a well-known novelist, whose works have been made famous by dramatic treatment, slapped the coachman and gallantly escorted the lady to her hotel, and the lady's husband, also an actor, was profuse in his thanks to the novelist for his timely aid.
